

The Hallelujah Trail

The Hallelujah Trail was developed by the Alabama Mountain Lakes Tourist Association and links 32 century-old historic churches and synagogues in North Alabama. The Natchez Trace Parkway is a 444-mile National Scenic Highway running through the states of Mississippi, Alabama, and Tennessee. The North Alabama Birding Trail is a series of 50 roadside stops that help travelers spot the eastern woodland birds and waterfowl that flock to and through North Alabama. The Lodge at Gorham's Bluff and Lake Guntersville State Park are both recommended as choices for overnight stays along the trail. The Lookout Mountain Parkway runs from Noccalula Falls in Gadsden to Chattanooga, covering the states of Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee. A detour to the Little River Canyon National Preserve outside Fort Payne is recommended.
